

A world map with a light blue background and red landmasses. Seven white rectangular boxes with black borders are placed over different regions, each with a black line pointing to a specific location. The boxes contain the names of regulatory agencies for pharmaceuticals and medical devices. The agencies are: Canadian Medical Device Regulations (CMDR) in North America, US Food & Drug Administration (FDA) in North America, Europe in Europe, Central Drugs Standard Control Organization (CDSCO) in South Asia, Singapore Health Science Authority (HSA) in Southeast Asia, China Food & Drug Administration (CFDA) in East Asia, and Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA) in Australia.

Canadian Medical Device Regulations (CMDR)

Europe

Pharmaceuticals & Medical Devices Agency (PMDA)

US Food & Drug Administration (FDA)

Central Drugs Standard Control Organization (CDSCO)

China Food & Drug Administration (CFDA)

Singapore Health Science Authority (HSA)

Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA)